

The Main Campus section of the Putah Creek Riparian Reserve is a 267-acre stream, riparian woodland, and grassland ecosystem. The location of the Reserve on campus provides a unique opportunity for researchers and classes to study natural areas within a short bike ride. The Reserve is open from sunrise to sunset. Not all areas of the Reserve are open to the public. Areas open to the public are shown below. Allowable uses within the public access area are described on the Putah Creek Reserve website and on signs located on site. Classes and researchers wishing to use the Reserve should contact the Reserve Manager at 530-752-0763 or amfulks@ucdavis.edu.
